DID YOU KNOW?

WHAT IS RPET?

rPET is an eco-friendly recycled plastic. Regular PET is a plastic that is often used in single use water bottles but it can be recycled into rPET and rPET polyester. This process saves large amounts of consumer plastics from ending up in landfills.

CORK IS SUSTAINABLE.

Cork is very eco-friendly and completely sustainable. Not only is cork biodegradable, it can be recycled into other cork products. Best of all, cork is regenerative. When cork bark is harvested from the tree, it grows back without any negative impact to the tree's health. The process is similar to shearing wool from a sheep.

WHAT IS TPU?

TPU stands for thermoplastic polyurethane, which sounds intimidating and hazardous. In fact, TPU is biodegradable and can be recycled into other TPU items. This circular re-purposing process establishes TPU as a sustainable product.

WHAT IS FRUIT FIBER AND SUGARCANE PAPER?

During the process of creating edible products, the stems, rinds, pits and other unusable parts are often discarded. These materials can be re-purposed through a green process that turns them into paper pulp. Each sheet will have a slight tint determined by the fruit used to create the paper. During the production of sugar, the fibrous remains of the sugarcane plant can also be processed into paper.
