

DECORATING HIGH END CARHARTT® JACKETS WITH LEATHER PATCHES

- When decorating higher end retail garments, great care is taken regarding what type of embellishment should be used.
- In the case of the Carhartt jackets, the brand is rugged and outdoor oriented - we wanted to use a decoration method that would reflect that. As well as consider the customers logo and how it would translate into a patch or embroidery.
- The distributor chose a leather patch that worked well for several jacket styles. There were two different logos for the two different jacket styles. Using the same leather material kept the brand uniform and allowed the customer to distinguish between the different jackets.
- Each patch was sewn on to ensure it would last a very long time and withstand the wear and tear in an outdoor environment.
