

Functional Business Cards

Do you hate having to travel with a stack of business cards? Or are you the recipient of business cards with no where to store them? For your next business card order, consider a functional promo item instead. Along with company information, you can print a QR code that pulls up a free business card app, which the client can download on to their phone to store your company information. They can then choose to take the "card" or scan it.
